

Message From the President

Dear Amazing Women of God,

We are in a time like none other when we are being challenged to the very core of our beliefs with regard to our relationships—with our husband, with our children, with family and friends and our most important relationship—Jesus Christ. The Lord is calling us to put down very deep roots with Him, which will not only prepare us for our Bridegroom, but will also prepare us for the daily challenges that come our way. By doing this, it will require that we simplify our lives. It is time that we set our priorities in a realistic way and simplify our lives to make time for what is most important...

- First, your relationship with the Lord,
- if you are married, your husband comes second,
- if you have children, they are next,
- everything else comes afterward

Our strength during these difficult and challenging days must come from the power of the Holy Spirit. If you commit to spending intimate time with the Lord, He will provide you with His wisdom, strength and direction. As we continue to spend time with the Lord, our relationship with Him will steadily grow and mature. This continuous relationship will only serve to meet our needs that we perceive to be unfilled. Our hope must be placed in the Lord and not in those who surround us. With great patience and perseverance, we must wait on the Lord for His answers. He will give us strength to soar on wings like eagles when we are willing to do so (see Is.40:31).

If you have not made the first step of entering into your first and most important relationship with Jesus Christ through a personal acknowledgement of Him as your Lord and Savior, then please let your chaplain or a PWOC leadership team member help you with the process of making the most important decision of your life.

May the Lord bless you and prepare you for Himself in a deeper intimate way as you totally yield your life to Him. I encourage you to say, "I do" to your Bridegroom. He is worth it...you are worth it as well.

Challenging You to Prepare for Your Bridegroom in Deeper Ways,

Brenda Marlin
President, PWOC International

Used by permission, Brenda Marlin, Nov. 2007